Index

Viewpoints in Teaching and Learning

Volume 57—1981

No. 1 Comprehensive Programming for Multiply Handicapped Children and Youth. 101pp., $4.95

Defining the Multihandicapped Deaf Population

Comments on the Least Restrictive Environments for Deaf-Blind Severe and Profoundly Handicapped Children

Life Goals for Persons with Severe Disabilities: A Structural Analysis

Individualized Education Programs for Multiply Handicapped Students

The Oak Hill Model for Severely Handicapped Persons

Prevocational Programming for Deaf-Blind, Severely and Profoundly Handicapped

Vision Assessment and Stimulation for Deaf-Blind/Severely-Profoundly Handicapped Children

Assessment of Deaf-Blind Children: A Study of the Use of the Behavior Rating Instrument for Autistic and Other Atypical Children

Assessment of Severely Handicapped A Sequential-Developmental Approach to Educational Planning

Prescriptive Play as a Prelude to Maximizing Personality Growth Among Severely Handicapped

A Leisure Activities Curricular Component for Severely Handicapped Youth: Why and How

Physical Education Activity for Everyone

No. 2 Facilitating Teaching and Learning of Secondary School Mathematics Through Computers. 142pp., $4.95

Computer Enhanced Mathematics

Effectiveness of Computers in Instruction

Research in Instructional Computing and Mathematics Education

Computers for Instructional Purposes—A Case Study

Computers and Middle School Mathematics

Algebra and Instructional Computing

The Microcomputer and Instruction in Geometry

Trigonometry—Mathematical Curricular Areas and Instructional Computing

Computer-Enhanced Probability

Computer Simulation in Secondary School Mathematics

No. 3 Issue on various practical and theoretical factors in education. 105pp., $4.95

Educating for Responsibility: Some Formal Considerations

Educating for Responsibility: Some Developmental Considerations

Application of Operations Research Procedures in Assigning Instructors to Courses Using Student Evaluation Data

Reading to Children as a Reading Readiness Activity

A Social Status Hierarchy: Reading Groups

Differences Among Colleges in Awareness of the Vocational Involvement of Women in Selected Occupations

Motivations for Teaching

Multicultural Education, A Challenge for Schools of Education

Planning Rural Vocational and Adult Education: A Multiframework Mega Model

No. 4 Concerns and New Directions for Vocational Education. 109 pp., $4.95

Toward a Liberating Interpretation of Philosophy for Vocational Education

'Practical' and 'Skill' Revisited: A Challenge to the Technical-Efficiency Model in Vocational Education

Doing What Schools Do Best: An Economic Perspective

Issues and Concerns for Improving Vocational Education

Improving the Productivity of the Work Force: An Expanded Role for Vocational Education

Policy Research and Vocational Education

Toward A Mutual Understanding: Vocational Education and Community-Based Organizations

Conceptualizing the Use of Learning Resources in Community Education: A General Model for Strategy Design

Apprenticeship-Vocational Education Links: A Course of Action

Preparation of Vocational Teachers to Serve Students with Special/ Exceptional Needs

Women in the Administrative Marketplace

Fallacious Accountability

A Critique of the Scientific Appraisal of Social Programs

Available from the Publications Office, Room 109
School of Education, Indiana University
Bloomington, Indiana 47405